
Win a Gourmet Tortilla Chip Sampler Package for Your Next Summer BBQ

Healthy, gourmet, and all-natural are rarely terms we associate with the humble tortilla chip, but things are different at Food Should Taste Good. I had the chance to sample all of their completely delicious original flavors a while back … but, now they have four new flavors, and they want you to taste just how good they are! They will send a gift package to three of you (yes, that is 1 .. 2 .. 3 winners!) to include full-size bags of their four new tortilla chip flavors. To enter, simply leave a comment on the FSTG Giveaway Post on One Frugal Foodie. If you are wondering if these chips will fit your special diet, all four varieties are gluten-free, dairy-free, soy-free, and vegan. If you are wondering how they taste ...

My good friend Hannah, author of My Sweet Vegan and blogger extraordinaire at Bittersweet, taste tested each of the new flavors, and I have some highlights and mini-photos from her review to get your taste buds ready:

- Yellow Corn - “refreshingly clean and crisp tasting”
- Lime - “the mellow, natural zest that met my tongue was a very pleasant surprise”
- Cinnamon - “very aromatic from the minute they’re released from the bag”
- Potato Chive - “these chips proved to have a very rich potato flavor, tasting earthy in the best way possible”

To enter to win, leave a comment on the FSTG Giveaway Post on One Frugal Foodie. You can just say hi, you can tell me how much you love the Go Dairy Free and One Frugal Foodie (brownie points are tallied), you can tell me which chip flavor you are most excited about, and/or you can put in a special request for a chip flavor you would love to see Food Should Taste Good come up with next.

To enter more than once, Tweet this giveaway via your twitter account, tell your friends on facebook, and/or link to this post from your blog. Be sure to leave a separate comment letting me know you did so! Two of last month’s winners were actually tweets, so every little bit helps!

Comment entries will be open through Tuesday, June 16th, after which time the three winners will be announced. Good luck!